tle at Santingo. A special to the New York Times from Newport yesterday says Capt. H. C. Taylor of the Indiana, who now commands the North Atlantic squadron, and who was formerly president of the war college, gave a lecture on the subject of naval tactics yesterday morning. In the course of his remarks he said:

"The battles of Santiago and Manila, complete successes though they were, have added but little evidence of value to naval tactics. Two fleets composed of fighting material trained to a high point of efficiency by two leaders of great genius, energy and bravery, annihilated two other fleets unfit and unready, though not deficient in bravery. There was little need of naval tactics in their technical sense. To close in, to stay there, and to fight it out were the only methods that the occasion demanded.

"We have to guard ourselves, however, from placing too great a value upon gun fire, when we consider the tremendous effect it certainly had in these battles. We must form our plans in future based upon an enemy who will be our equal in gun fire, as in other qualities, and who will not permit us to have our own way to explore permit us to have our own way to such an extent as we had against the Spaniards, and we should not permit the result of gun fire in those two battles to act so powerfully upon our imaginations as to change our regard for those tactical principles which centuries, rather than days, have firmly established."

CURRENT SPORTING NEWS

The reputed head and originator of the new base ball organization to enter into competition with the National League and American Association next season is located in this city in the person of Mr. Michael B. Scanlon, who has been identified with the national game off and on for the past twenty-five years as a magnate or manager. The recent utterances of the National League magnates concerning the contemplated organization has called forth a protest from Mr. Scanlon, who fires the first gun of the base ball war in the following statement:

To the Editor of The Evening Star: It is less than thirty days since the first mention was publicly made of the new base ball organization, and today columns of the newspapers from Maine to California are taken up in discussing its prospects. Our friend Wagner of Philadelphia, who controls the old organization here, has started the triphammer of misrepresentation, knocking the contemplated association, knocking the contemplated association. tion before its organization, before its circuit has been made, grounds secured or players signed, thus giving evidence of his alarm at the prospect of a rival whose main aim will be to give the public good ball, and, succeeding in this, then to make

If the new association is a myth and can-not complete its organization, why, then, so much alarm by Mr. Wagner and his associates? It seems silly to me to waste time in discussing things that cannot be. Of course, no one can object to Mr. Wag-ner expressing his views, but we have a right to ask that the matter be discussed right to ask that the matter be discussed fairly and honestly. We think the public have too long been hoodwinked and buncoed by the National League in unfulfilled promises. We believe they will give their support to an organization such as we propose to give them, and in that belief we have to leave to leave the large of the say of propose to launch our bark on the sea of base ball. Chris Von der Ahe is not the St. Louis

Chris Von der Ahe is not the St. Louis end of the new association. Every one who knows anything about the National League knows that they will reduce their organization to eight clubs at the moment they can see their way clear to do so. I have known for the past two years that Louisville has been the stumbling block, and, could it have been settled with, Robison and Hanlon would have gladly accepted what was offered them and Baltimore and Cleveland would have dropped out. Mr. Wagner would then be forced to settle on the league's terms and retire. He is merethe league's terms and retire. He is mere-ly holding on new so as to be in position to secure his slice when the change comes. He is not expecting to make money from his gate receipts. He has been here eight years and his club now is in no way superior to the one I turned over to him. If a club cannot be improved in that time, then it is time for a change. The public de-mand a change. I know hundreds of old patrons of the game who never witness a

The Nationa players were Lynch and Derby, pitchers Trott, catcher: Myerly, first base; Booth second base; Ellick, third base; McClellan, shortstep; Mansell, left field; Eaker, center field; one of the pitchers playing right field field; one of the pitchers playing right field (ten men in all), and we tied the Albanys for the championship. I started the Union Association in 1884, the capital of the Washington club being $4,009. On my return from Pittsburg, where we held our first business meeting. I found the whole machinery of the National League and American Association directed against me and the early demise of the new association was predicted. Mr. L. Moxley had a tion was predicted. Mr. L. Moxley had a strong team in the American Association, with beautiful grounds and finely equipped were Baker and Wise of this city. Moxley offered them more salary than I felt justified in paying them, but they refused to go with him, saying, "We know Scanion and he is good enough for us." You can readily see what a fight we had on our hands-$4,000 against $100,000. But we won out, and before the season was over We played the season out and made mon-cy. If I am enabled to be a member of the new organization with a team located here all the talk of the league through its paid men's suspenders

In plain and fancy weaves, with drawer attachment — 25-cent value. Friday all the talk of the league through its paid attorneys will have no terrors for me. I have met them before. We hear a great deal of talk about the failure of the brother-hood. Did they have one thorough business man among them? If they did I have failed to find him. As an illustration of the management of the brother-hood we will take the Brooklyn club. They started with a capital of $50,000. Of this amount they expended $40,000 on a grand stand, leaving them only one-fifth of their capital for a rainy day. If I had been managing for them I should have put $10,000 in the grand stand and grounds and kept $40,000 for the rainy day. Any other experienced base ball man would have represented in the new association, and that there will be no league club here next year. It will be the same in Baltimore, with McGraw and Robinson controlling the new club. Philadelphia and New York are both good balt towns, and capital is in hand to be the controlling the same than the controlling the contro to back the enterprise in those cities. They are both good enough for two clubs. I would like to see the league and our assowould like to see the league and our asso-ciation ceme together and amicably ar-range matters, but if the league people will not agree to this, why, then they must go ahead and we will-fight it out. Now, a word about the recently published statement of Mr. Brush. He is reported to have said that it will cost the new asso-ciation from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 to put the new candidate for base ball honors in the field. I estimate that $400,000, at the rate of $50,000 to each city, will be ample, and I am as capable of predicting on a matter of this kind as Mr. Brush is.

son of Jesse Tannehill faced the Senators yesterday in Pittsburg, and, of course, the Pirates won, the score being 8 to 1 in their favor. Tannehill is reputed to be one of the best twirlers in the National League, but his winning powers over the Washington club rest in being a southpaw. But five hits were made off of his delivery yesterday, and his support was fairly good. Mercer was on the rubber for the Senators and was hit hard, notwithstanding some

The Pittsburgs at present are putting up an exceptionally fast article of ball, and it will require the same kind of playing from the Senators before they land a game in the present series. Outside of Padden and Atherton the Washington boys played well. Bonner at second getting ten chances without an error, while Jimmy Siagle secured two of the five hits credited to the Washingtons.

The repast served up to the Senators had

The repast served up to the Senators had all the earmarks of a whitewash when they came to the bat for the last time, but a little luck came their way and one run was scored. Bonner, the first man up, hit toward third, where Williams made a nice stop but threak had to first and the bat. stop, but threw bad to first, and the bat-ter was safe. Duncan, batting for Free-man, then went out at first, advancing Benner to second and Padden's timely single sent the stout second baseman over the rubber.

At Pittsburg again today. The Senators would do well, probably, with no left-handers in the league. The first gun of the new base ball organization is fired today and matters will be lively from this time on. . Reports from Chicago say that Demon-treville has once more slipped over the traces, his absence from the game giving a victory to the Phillies over the Cowboys yesterday.

Manager Hanlon is reported to have asked Manager Irwin for one of the Senatorial twirlers. The Brooklyn manager evidently believes that Washington "cast-offs" are quite the "real thing." His request was refused, however.

The deal looking to the acquirement of Jennings by the Philadelphia club is at a standstill. Some time since Jeunings was offered the Quaker management for $6,000 and then the price dropped to $1,500 without offered the Quaker management for $6,000 and then the price dropped to $3,500 without being taken. Jennings is needed now on account of Lajoie's injuries and the price has boomed back to the $6,000 mark.

Twirler Miner, recently purchased from the Lancaster, Atlantic League, club, has almost recovered from his illness and will report to the Washington management when the club returns. Miner is a left-hander and credited with being very effective.

A special from Richmond, Va., says that Manager Hanlon has telegraphed Twirler Bill Donovan, the ex-Senator, to join the Brooklyns at once, and that the latter would leave that city today. Donovan has (Continued on Eleventh Page.)
